The Recommendation of the Peace

Conference in Tennessee. So far as the expression of public opinion through the press of this State goes, it is generally in favor of the recommendation of an amendment to the Federal Constitution made by the Peace Conference lately assembled at Washington. Though in phraseology and substance the result of that Conference may not fully meet the views of each individual among the conservative and Unionloving people of the State, they are willing to accept and abide by the principles therein embodied, as understood by them, as sufficient to protect and preserve the rights of all sections, and so annihilate the "irrepressible conflict" and restore the government to its original peace and confraternity. The indications likewise are that the opposition to the victorious sectional party throughout the North, will present the recommendation of the Peace Conference as the paramount issue in the near approaching contest before the people of that section, in their elections for Congress and State officers. We are inclined to believe also that the people of the seceded States will look upon the issue of this contest both in the non-slaveholding States and in the border States of the South as decisive of the final result of the efforts to preserve the Union under the Constitution, and that the result will det rmine to a great extent the question whether there is a possible ex it from our present difficulties which will lead to the viadication of the equal rights of all sections, and the complete restoration of the Union in its original integrity. If we are correct in this view, it must follow that it is our imperative duty as triends of the Union and its restoration, to come forward as one man to the support of the recommendation of the Peace Conference, and to make a thorough test as to whether it is the sense of the people of the Union. We are satisfied that nothing less than the amendment proposed by that Conference will accomplish the desired result, and we regard it of the highest moment to the Union at large that the approaching contest should be so shaped as to determine that question. In the inception of the canvass, therefore, we desire to place ourselves on that platform, and so obtain a verdict of the people on the great question of the Union on this construction. for we regard the proposition submitted by desire to take the management of the affairs further verbal expression of the plain intend- whenever one of the delegates has the impu-

The government at first constructed it, or to yield | Whig saysit'to the hand of indefinite disruption and disintegration through the baleful instrumentalities of anti-slavery fanaticism on the one hand and to flery secessionism on the other. We trust that no one can besitate on such a question: It goes to the very existence of the government itself, and cannot be decided by individual preference or partisan feeling. It calls into active exertion all the disinterested patriotism and sover judgment of all classes of people. They must first secure the government before they can dispute about the most expedient mode of its administra-

The Era of Falsehood.

There are so many false rumors, &c., put in circulation through the telegraph of late, that it is next to impossible to know what degree of reliance to place in any thing received through that medium. It was stated recently that Mr. LINCOLN had selected the National Intelligencer as his organ; and more recently that he had appointed Mr. SEATON, of that paper, Post Master at Washington. The Intelligencer of Saturday takes occasion to "nip in the bad" both of these sensation items, neither of which it declares has any foundation in fact. We have already corrected the falsehoods put in circulation relative to Mr. Beld... The telegraph, however, is not alone the means of spreading falsehood to the press and the public. Maj. ANDERSON complains that letters with his name appended to them are forged and sent to Northern newspapers, doing him injustice and keeping up ill feeling at Charleston. A long letter was published a few days ago in the Eastern papers, purporting to have been written by Lieut, SLEM-MER, at Fort Pickens. This letter has drawn upon the gallant Lieutenant much abuse and Editors National Intelligencer: Please state that the letter published in the New York Tribune of the 4th instant. purporting to have been written by Lieut. amer from Fort Pickens on the 20 h ult. was not received or published by me, and that I believe the letter to be a forgery. Many of the statements are undoubtedly true; but there are points in the letter which are unusual in Lieut. Slemmer's family correspondence; and, besides, Lieut. Simmer's brothers are not given to publishing private CHARLES SLEMMER.

The abuses of the telegraph are provoking legislation to stop them. In the Virginia Senate, a bill is under consideration which makes the sending of a "false statement" a misdemeanor, and therefore inflicts a fine of not more than $500, nor less than $50, or by imprisonment in the common jail for not more than three months, or less than tea days, or by both, as the Court may direct. It also provides that the telegraph company by whose line such "untrue statemen" may be sent shall be liable to a penalty of not less than $50 nor more than $500; provided that, if the company shall have kept a copy or record of the statement, together with the name of the person transmitting it, or causing it to be transmitted, and shall furnish and disclose the same to the satisfaction of the Court, it shall be lawful for the Court to remit such penalty. The informer is to get the whole fine; and if he declines it, it is then to go to the Literary fund.

DEATH OF COL. JOHN READ. -- We learn from the Huntsville (Ala.) Advocate that Col. John READ, of that place, died suddenly last Saturday. Col. READ was, we believe, a native of Tennessee, and made Huntsville his residence before Alabama was admitted into the Union. So he lived to see the State enter the Union and adopt an ordinance going out of it. He was always a conservative in pollities, and enjoyed in the highest degree the confidence and esteem of the com-munity in which he spent so long a share of AND COME THE CO. COS. SOCIETA SOCIETA

These are pleasant indications of the exist ence yet of the spirit of liberty amongst conservatives in Alabama.

From the National Intelligencer, March 11, Late last evening we learned that in Cabinet meeting on Saturday night it was determined to evacuate Fort Sumter. If the news is authentic, of which we have no reason to doubt, this measure has been taken as one of conciliation to the Border States. The fort has no strategetic importance, and it may have been supposed that the yielding a point of pride to South Carolina could very well be afforded by a great Government, would satisfy the country generally of the pacific policy of the Administration, and enable it, without the appearance of coercion, to be more stringent n the enforcement of the revenue laws.

It is time that the people knew, not only what laws they live under, but who are responsible for their passage. If it is necessary to exclude the public from the deliberations of Congress to prevent confusion, that is no reason for depriving the press of the privilege of publishing the proceedings of our rulers.
